

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a method and system based on virtual frames for enabling a QAP to seamlessly operate between granting polls for upstream and sidestream traffic while sending downstream frames. A key feature of the scheduling method of the invention is 5 that the scheduling method generates virtual frames to create transmission opportunity durations for granting polls for the upstream and sidestream traffic.